

Value of Being a Member

At the core of its mission and values, Tech Collective is empowered and impassioned to serve Rhode Island's technology and bioscience community. We take pride in servicing our member and industry needs, and above all, we serve as an industry connector. If there are any questions or opportunities you would like to learn more about, do not hesitate to contact us &ndash; even if we cannot fulfill it, we will connect you to the resource that can. Contact us today to get involved or learn more. Contact: Amy Ells Director of Business Development & IT aells@tech-collective.org 401-521-7805 x.101 Download/Share: Tech Collective Membership & Benefits Membership & Benefits Membership with Tech Collective is open to business, academic, government, and non-profit institutions and organizations which research, design, develop, produce, sell, distribute, utilize, support and/or provide related services in the bioscience and IT industries. Industry sectors can include: Bioscience: medical device and equipment; drugs and pharmaceuticals; research, testing, and medical laboratories; agricultural feedstock and chemicals; storage, transportation, and distribution

Information Technology: network systems; information support and services; programming and software development; interactive media; health and medical technology Tech Collective boasts members ranging from global multi-million dollar companies to one-entrepreneur startups. Each find the right fit for engagement and growth with Tech Collective through customized programs and services including:

- Industry Leadership
- Network Building and Collaboration
- Educational Forums, Peer Networking, and Awards
- Marketing and Visibility Services
- Industry Intelligence and Advocacy
- Affinity and Discount Programs
- Workforce Pipeline Development